ron haflidson places the theology of augustine in conversation with contemporary authors who warn of the dangers of abandoning solitude for constant often technological connection haflidson addresses an essential question that has previously been neglected what difference does it make to the practice of solitude if one believes that even in the absence of any human company god is always intimately present for augustine solitude is a moral necessity he recommends that we regularly retreat from the crowd into the depths of our conscience where we can dwell alone in the company of god and enter into dialogue before and with god about who we are and how we love throughout this book haflidson pairs close readings of augustine with those of noted cartographers of our inner lives literary greats including jane austen george eliot marilynne robinson and george saunders this book explores what undiscovered possibilities may lie in solitude

this critique provides a framework for understanding and interpreting the widespread but little known new apostolic reformation movement as the authors state in the preface we write this book with two major goals in mind first to give people an idea of the sheer size and reach of the nar movement and second to systematize its key teachings and practices and evaluate them on the basis of scripture and careful reasoning in our judgment the nar perspective crosses these boundaries that is certain broad parameters revealed in scripture and practiced in the historical orthodox church and it does so in part because of flawed theology rooted in a flawed understanding of scripture
